Utilization review (UR) and medical bill review (MBR) have long been viewed as a perfect pairing in workersâ€™ compensation. So much so that the need for integration between the two services has been given much attention by service providers. Todayâ€™s most effective workersâ€™ compensation managed care programs have raised the bar by demanding a more impactful strategy. Fostering a hierarchy of best practices can improve managed care program efficiencies, outcomes, and resulting savings. This hierarchy combines utilization review, medical bill review, and medical nurse case management in a different way. Prioritization of when and how this trio of strategies is integrated matters.
