In the aftermath of a mass casualty incident (MCI), the workersâ€™™ compensation industry is reminded of the importance of preparation. To minimize exposure, it is vital for employers and carriers to proactively develop a disaster response recovery plan (DRP), and have supplemental clinical resources at the ready to assist all stakeholders in navigating the medical system.

In this recent WC Magazine article, Genexâ€™™s Laney Bond offers a framework to help facilitate improved results from the workersâ€™™ compensation perspective.
